Overview

Environmental regulation in South Africa is detailed, technical and constantly evolving. Non-compliance can result in significant fines, criminal liability, operational delays and reputational damage.

This course equips professionals with practical knowledge to confidently navigate waste and water legal requirements and apply them in real workplace situations.

Both days emphasise shared learning through legislation, case studies and practical examples, case law, discussion, questions and shared experiences, and practical guidelines.

Who should attend?

This course is designed for professionals who need to understand and apply South African waste and water legislation in their daily work:

- Environmental managers and compliance officers
- Environmental consultants and auditors
- Compliance and sustainability officers
- Government regulators and officials
- Legal advisors working in environmental fields
- Project and operations managers dealing with regulated activities
- Legal practitioners new to environmental law

Your Expert Facilitator

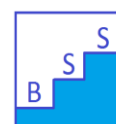

Janice Tooley | MSc (UKZN), LLB (UNISA)
